

cOnnect Day

Doing Better

COTBC • CAOT-BC • UBC OS & OT

Saturday, November 5, 2022

cOnnect Day is back! Plan to join us for a day of learning, reflecting, and connecting.

Speaker

HARMONY JOHNSON

Bringing Positive Changes into Practice

Harmony Johnson, vice president of Indigenous Wellness & Reconciliation at Providence Health Care, joins us to reflect on the In Plain Sight report and its calls to action to improve equity in health care. She will help us to consider the implications for OTs by building a practical understanding of what Indigenous specific racism is, how it has been woven into health care in BC, and what we can do to make changes in our practice.

Two occupational therapists will bring their personal and professional insights on practising well with Indigenous health principles in mind to facilitate and inform a group discussion for all.

Update on OT Program

UBC-OSOT UBC Professor and Department Head Sue Forwell will share an update on the exciting expansion of the occupational therapy program and highlight their efforts on Justice, Equity, Diversity and Inclusion.
